River works Wu Ta-cheng commences b saying that doctors in prescribing for a disease are always careful in the first place to accertain its cause, and sick people in taking medicine ought to see that the prescription suits the particular nature of their complaint. Perhaps Wu considers himself a the transportation of mails and convicts. competent river doctor, if we may use the term, but no one knows what his qualifica- Point discharged an accountant, who, out of The control of rivers is a well understood issued for his arrest. branch of engineering science in Western countries, while in China it is in a most rudimentary stage. Wu goes on to say :--on the duties of his present office, he has been day after day on the river banks engaged in making enquiries from the old people in the country as to the condition of things in the past, and has tested their statements by comparing them with historical records. He has thus become convinced that the trouble with the Yellow River in Honny, far from being incapable of remedy, is reall; due to the want of a proper method of treatment. The present system of raising embankments and protecting them with fascines is not a far-sighted policy, and what is really wanted is the construction of breakwaters to divert the current and save the embankments from being worn away, by keeping the volume of the water in the main channel of the River." Wu's opinion that and has proved ineffectual in the past casion is not so bright as could be wished. Possibly the breakwater system may be theoretically the best, and its former failure be due to neglect of the necessary renairs. Indeed, Ww mentions that in 1867 an officer removed one of the few remaining stone breakwaters and in the following year the breach at Haing-tse occurred. Conceding, for the sake-of argument, that the is the best that could be adopted in the circumstances, the substantial construction of the work is of no less importance, than Japan Gazette. correct theory. The Chinese, though they have had unrivalled experience in river works, have not profited by it to gain a thorough knowledge of the subject; the wholeengineering talent of the Empire would be found incapable of conceiving or carrying to a successful issue works such as those on the river Tees, a section of which was declared completed the other day by the Right Hon. W. H. SMITH.

It appears that the Yellow River breach is now thirty chang in width (say 350 feet) -having been reduced from 550 chang, and NI WEN-WEL a member of the former Commission, in a report to the Throne on the condition of the works, takes credit to himself and his colleagues for what has been accomplished. According to the Chinese Times " Abstract of Peking Gazettes " the report " is really a vindication of the action taken by Li Hung-TSAO, Li Ho-Nika, and himself in suspending operation until after the Autumn freshets. As the only remaining member of the River Commission as originally constituted, he reminds the Throne that under its regime the break was reduced from 550 chang to about 30 chang in width, and that the postponement of the work was necessitated, by the approach of the freshets. A similar postponement for two ing the great breach at Chung-mou. that occasion nearly half of the total work was swept away during the interval, while substantial nature of the work already accomplished-at a cost, it may be remarked, several times in excess of its real value—is due, is most sincerely to be hoped. But the memorialist can bardly be ignorant of the fact that the operation of closing the breach will become increasingly difficult as the two at Hongkong, dated November 16th, 1888. From "The railway of this Company between Tienends of the embankment approach each other, it we learn that a Captain O'Keefe, of the tein and Tang-shan is already completed and ends of the embaukment approach each other. and that it is in effecting the final juncture that failure is most to be feared. NEW & ORIGINAL SERIAL STORY FROM THE PEN OF RIDER HAGGARD,

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "Allan Quartermain," "She," "Jess," &c., &c. The Proprietors of this Journal are pleased to announce that they have, at a very considerable outlay, made arrangements with H. RIDER HAGGARD—the Author of the most popular and dramatic Stories of our day-by which their Readers will enjoy precedent perusal of a new and unpublished manuscript Story from his pen.

The Title of RIDER HAGGARD'S New Story is COLONEL QUALITCH, V.C. And the Opening Chapters appeared in THE "HONGKONG DAILY PRESS" OF SATURDAY, 21st JULY.

In this dramatic work, the author of "She makes a new departure. Instead of placing his Veither the CAPTAINS, the AGENTS, nor the characters in lands remote from civilization and the following Vessels during their stay in written an English treasure story of the present day. The hero is a soldier in the British army. CADIA, Brit. bk., D. S. Eward, -Wieler & Co. a wearer of the Victoria Cross, who returns home BUSTA, Ger. bk., Jessen.-Ed. The plot is DY HAREWOOD, Brit. bk., Williams .- Gon- well contrived, there is strong individualisation in the characters; the scenes are depicted with RWAY, Nor. bk., Albrethsen.-Wieler & Co. | clearness and a warm glow of local colour, while PARTHIA, Brit. str., Wallace.-Adamson, Bell the main incidents are worked out with power. Not even in "King Solomon's Mines," when entrance is effected into the mysterious chamber. is the thrill greater than when Colonel Quaritch unearths the treasure, hidden away from Cromwell's soldiers, the recovery of which saves an ancient house from ruin.
